caribbean journal of education

Volume 18, 1996

AUTHOR INDEX

Bailey, Barbara, and Esperanza Tomlinson. Financing Democratization of Education in the Caribbean: Interplay of Private and Public Sources, p. 204. No. 2.

Brathwaite, Workeley, and Winston King. Development of Science Education in Barbados: A Process of Democratization, p. 103. No. 1.

Brown, Monica M. Can the Beginning Teacher Dare to Be Democratic? p. 229. No. 2.

Byron, Maria, and Paula Mark. Negotiated Assessment: Report on Alternative Tertiary-Level Strategies, p. 122. No. 1.

Clarke, Desmond C. Empowerment as a Strategy for Tackling Problems of Quality Education in Barbados, p. 59. No. 1.

Gift, E. H. Responsive Curriculum Development for Small Developing Caribbean States, p. 151. No. 2.

Hurst, Brian C. Knowledge of Rights and Duties: Justification of Public Provision of Compulsory Schooling, p. 133. No. 1.

James-Reid, Olga, and Ivy J. Mitchell. Collaboration for School Improvement: Secondary Schools in Jamaica, p. 249. No. 2.

Joseph, Stella M. Reflective Practice: Democratic Approach to Teacher Professional Development? p. 79. No. 1.

King, Winston, and Workeley Brathwaite. Development of Science Education in Barbados: A Process of Democratization, p. 103. No. 1.

Mark, Paula, and Maria Byron. Negotiated Assessment: Report on Alternative Tertiary-Level Strategies, p. 122. No. 1.

Miller, Errol. Gender and the Democratization of Caribbean Education, p. 11. No. 1.

Mitchell, Ivy J., and Olga James-Reid. Collaboration for School Improvement: Secondary Schools in Jamaica, p. 249. No. 2.

Morris, Halden A. Technical and Vocational Education in Jamaica: Development and Democratization, p. 264. No. 2.

Newton, Earle H. Educative Leadership for Tomorrow's Schools, p. 45. No. 1.

Ribeiro, Marva. Managing Democratization: Children with Special Needs at the Secondary Level in Trinidad and Tobago, p. 218. No. 2.

Riley, Marcia. Distance Education: Promoting Democratization of Education, p. 193. No. 2.

Scott, Fentey B. Educational Democratization? What Would the Athenians Think? p. 1. No. 1.

Soyibo, Kola, and Peter Whiteley. Gender Differences in Students' Perceptions of the Democratization of Science Lessons, p. 179. No. 2.

Tomlinson, Esperanza, and Barbara Bailey. Financing Democratization of Education in the Caribbean: Interplay of Private and Public Sources, p. 204. No. 2.

Whiteley, Peter, and Kola Soyibo. Gender Differences in Students' Perceptions of the Democratization of Science Lessons, p. 179. No. 2.

caribbean journal of education

Volume 18, 1996

TITLE INDEX

Can the Beginning Teacher Dare to Be Democratic? by Monica M. Brown, p. 229. No. 2.

Collaboration for School Improvement: Secondary Schools in Jamaica, by Olga James-Reid and Ivy J. Mitchell, p. 249. No. 2.

Development of Science Education in Barbados: A Process of Democratization, by Workeley Brathwaite and Winston King, p. 103. No. 1.

Distance Education: Promoting Democratization of Education, by Marcia Riley, p. 193. No. 2.

Educational Democratization? What Would the Athenians Think? by Fentey B. Scott, p. 1. No. 1.

Educative Leadership for Tomorrow's Schools, by Earle H. Newton, p. 45. No. 1.

Empowerment as a Strategy for Tackling Problems of Quality Education in Barbados, by Desmond C. Clarke, p. 59. No. 1.

Financing Democratization of Education in the Caribbean: Interplay of Private and Public Sources, by Barbara Bailey and Esperanza Tomlinson, p. 204. No. 2.

Gender and the Democratization of Caribbean Education, by Errol Miller, p. 11. No. 1.

Gender Differences in Students' Perceptions of the Democratization of Science Lessons, by Kola Soyibo and Peter Whiteley, p. 179. No. 2.

Knowledge of Rights and Duties: Justification of Public Provision of Compulsory Schooling, by Brian C. Hurst, p. 133. No. 1.

Managing Democratization: Children with Special Needs at the Secondary Level in Trinidad and Tobago, by Marva Ribeiro, p. 218. No. 2.

Negotiated Assessment: Report on Alternative Tertiary-Level Strategies, by Maria Byron and Paula Mark, p. 122. No. 1.

Reflective Practice: Democratic Approach to Teacher Professional Development? by Stella M. Joseph, p. 79. No. 1.

Responsive Curriculum Development for Small Developing Caribbean States, by E. H. Gift, p. 151. No. 2.

Technical and Vocational Education in Jamaica: Development and Democratization, by Halden A. Morris, p. 264. No. 2.